The public would not be astonished to know that GERMANY is calling out his reserves.

SENATOR EVARTS has not yet recoiled from his stubborn attitude of inflammatory silence.

The President has not yet been directed to submit his private fishing-tackle and worm-gourd for Senatorial inspection.

It is probable that the New York Board of Aldermen will soon find it hard to get a quorum, but under the circumstances the absentee should not be fined.

Iowa discovers that she has an auditor who can force the New York Board of Aldermen to look to their laurels. The metropolis should not expect to be pre-eminence in all things.

It is a pity that such a paper as the Panama Star and Herald should have been suppressed by the Government. It had a daily circulation of 15,000, a Sunday circulation of 41,000, and was a formidable rival of the Globe-Democrat in the matter of special telegrams.

The House Committee has temporarily dropped the consideration of Mr. MORRISON's tariff bill in order to devote its attention to more urgent business. The bill has much to commend it, but for some reason Mr. MORRISON has had luck in getting his ideas transcribed into law.

MR. LOGAN supports his bill in favor of a larger army with a stirring quotation from SHAKESPEARE. Junius wrote of a verse-quoting opponent: "Drawing his arguments from the domains of fiction, he naturally appeals to the evidence of the poets." But it would be manifestly unfair to apply such language to Senator LOGAN on the present occasion, especially while GERMANY is on the rampage.

SENATOR LOGAN said in his latest speech: "When any man insinuates that I am not the friend of the laboring man, he insinuates that which is utterly unjustifiable." Such mild and courteous language shows a softening of temper and an unexpected self-control in the tawny Senator. When his old friends read the first clause of the above extract they will at once anticipate a more energetic and more profitable close.

MR. INGERSOLL once tried to persuade a National Republican Convention to nominate BLAINE because he was "as spotless as a star." For the sake of variety, he should change the phrase, in future eulogies, to "spotless as a New York Alderman." Some stars and some Aldermen are thought to have a few thousand spots, while Mr. BLAINE has some freckles on his moral epidermis, visible through the naked telescope; but such trifling considerations should not be allowed to impede the progress of political oratory.

TWO MEMBERS of the General Executive Board of the Knights of Labor have reached St. Louis and are now in conference with the local committee of the striking seamstresses. The excitement has been gradually subsiding for some days. The quiet of an intervening Sunday would be favorable to the reception of whoo-woos, and in the absence of further exciting incidents it is to be hoped that some adjustment or general understanding will be reached by Monday which will free the commerce of the city from further obstruction.

RUSSELL has abolished the last vestige of slavery within her borders. The next thing in order should be the emancipation of the Russian people. A nihilist writer refers to his country as "the empire of the night," and the phrase seems appropriate when one considers how immovably the Russian Government opposes every reform and tendency of the times that would lead to general enlightenment and popular government. NAPOLEON once said that all Europe would finally be republican or Cossack, and the genius and conscience of the age would not permit it to be Cossack.

JEALOUS RIVALRY.

Senator EDWARDS finds it very difficult to manage the Republican caucus of the Senate. His famous resolution, which was framed for the annihilation of the Administration and the thorough scattering of its fragments, has lost its magic charm, and Republicans are refusing to live up to the terms of the contract embraced therein. Mr. EDWARDS reminds his Republican friends that, in passing the resolution, they pledged themselves to reject all nominations when the papers in the case have been refused. But the Senators find that the contract is much larger than it seemed to be when viewed at a distance, and the prospect is that there will be no rejection of nominations except for good and obvious cause.

The jealousy now existing among prominent Republican Senators seriously interferes with the traditional power of the caucus, and makes it hard for the brethren to dwell together in unity. This keen rivalry is, for the present, the evil genius of the Republican party. The present booms are jealous and are plotting to destroy each other. A whole body of expectant Presidential pigs are eager to be utilized, while there is but one Presidential hole, and even that will not be empty for several weeks. Under such circumstances, Republican Senators do not gracefully acknowledge the leadership of Mr. EDWARDS, and some of them secretly rejoice in his discomfiture. Several think that their own claims to Senatorial leadership are worthy of consideration and equal to those of the austere Vermontor.

Amid such disaffection the mandates of the caucus are not strictly obeyed. The emergency calls for a heroic remedy of some sort, but the proper course does not readily suggest itself. Artemus Ward allayed the jealousy that was creating dissensions in the ranks of his military company by making all his private brigadier-generals, but the harmonious relations of the Republican Senators call for more vigorous and effective treatment.

GLADSTONE'S LAST BATTLE.

Interest in the political situation at Westminster grows daily more intense. It is something new under the sun to see a Premier facing, not only with firmness but with every indication of serene confidence, a formidable combination of the opposition with the two revolted extremes of his own party.

Between the Hartington Whigs and the Tories there is no barrier but the feudal memory of a long political strife between rival families of aristocrats. Both are equally committed to the traditional policy of England toward Ireland, and to the conservation of class privileges and landlord interests. In defense of these they might be expected to ignore old personal rivalries for a while and combine against GLADSTONE. However favorable they may be to the principle of paying fairly for expropriated estates, they must feel that the destruction of landlordism in Ireland means the death of landlordism in England, whether by the nationalization of land or by turning the land over to peasant proprietors as in France. And in democratic home rule for Ireland they probably think they see a great stride toward the formation of the "United States of Britannia," or some such frightful thing.

The Chamberlain Radicals constitute the opposite or democratic extreme of the Liberal party; a party comprising so many different elements, interests and shades of feeling, from dual aristocrats down to the humblest longers after equality, that only the matchless skill and influence of GLADSTONE could have held such a party united and led it to victory so often. And so it seems to be assumed that a combination of the two extremes of this party with the Tories should not be more difficult to effect than such a combination as the Liberal party itself has always been. Anyhow, there is, besides the Whig revolt led by HARTINGTON, a Radical defection led by two second Cabinet officers, on the ground that the cost of revolutionizing land tenures in Ireland will impose a heavy burden on the workingmen of England and put a largely increased debt in the way of revolutionizing English land tenures for their benefit. No doubt the "true-blue Englishman" sentiment, with its self-sufficiency and rooted distrust of all outsiders, Irish especially, still colors the views of even the average Radical, and may help him to the folly of aiding the aristocrats to divide and conquer the only party in which English Radicalism has ever acquired power or prestige, the only party that has ever done anything for English democracy.

In order to keep the Radical defection as small as that of the Whigs, it is said that GLADSTONE will show how the £600,000,000 needed to extinguish landlordism in Ireland can be saved out of the vast sums paid as pensions to dukes, marquises, earls, viscounts and barons merely because they are nobles and not for any service they render to the State, to society or to humanity at large. And by doing this he is said to be confident of gaining more seats in a new election from the Irish vote in England alone than can be taken from him by all the votes of CHAMBERLAIN and HARTINGTON combined.

If the caucus takes this shape it will shake the foundation of the old order in that country. In pensions to noble families England pays every year $64,071,100. This is more than 60 per cent in excess of the revenues raised to pay all the debts and expenses of the United States. If this immense sum were devoted to a just and more useful purpose than the support of an aristocracy, it would in a few years pay for the transfer of all the land in the United Kingdom to peasant proprietors—to the actual cultivators of the soil. Enough money to pay forever the interest on GLADSTONE's Irish land fund could be taken out of England's aristocratic pension roll and not be missed.

COMMISSIONER WRIGHT of the National Labor Bureau estimates that last year there were 1,000,000 more idle workmen in this country than we had in 1880. Well, in 1880 our imports of merchandise amounted to $666,328,411 and our merchandise exports to $233,946,353, a foreign trade total of $1,400,274,764. In 1880 our imports were $662,029,320, and our exports $738,682,946, a foreign trade total of $1,400,712,266, or $191,005,298 less than in 1880. The balance of trade in our favor in 1880 was $107,683,942, and in 1885 it was $164,662,420—only $56,978,478 less. But the volume of foreign trade was $191,005,298 less in 1885 than in 1880, and such a shrinkage of trade with a largely increased population would naturally throw a great many people out of employment.

The suffrage extension has not yet made voting as universal in the United Kingdom as in the United States. The population of the former by the census of 1881 was 3,246,633. The census of 1880 showed a population of 49,871,840 in the United States, exclusive of Territories, which do not vote in Presidential elections. The total vote of the United Kingdom under the new suffrage law at the last election (1885) was 5,707,531. The total vote of the United States at the Presidential election (1884) was 10,044,985. Our vote, in spite of the large alien vote in some Southern and Eastern States, is one to every 4.61 persons. The British vote is one to every 6.17 persons. Of the British vote England had 4,961,260, Ireland 741,915 and Scotland 343,808.

It is now suggested that JONES of Florida felt so lonesome in a group of Senatorial millionaires that he fled in despair and sought the seclusion of a Michigan hermitage. The subsequent admixture of romance with the sensational episode may have been a mere incident of the affair. A Senator without a million is now somewhat in the position of a fisherman without a worm-gourd. There are some poor members of the Senate, but they are old-fashioned, out of date, and move in the august body on a footing of polite toleration.

DR. W. H. BOYD, now in jail in Camden, Ark., for horse stealing, has broken the bigamist record with a brilliancy and dash that ought to give him the championship. Thus far he has been ascertained that he has ten living wives, with several back countries to hear from. The scattered condition of BOYD's wives is the only circumstance that saves him from the opprobrious stigma of Mormonism. The evidence, as far as developed, tends to prove that the accused disapproves of the single state.

GLADSTONE may be "riding to a fall," as the Pall Mall Gazette says, but his fall will mean only a well-earned rest for the grand old man himself. It will not mean either rest or a long-lived triumph for the aristocrats who draw $544,000,000 in pensions every year for no services rendered by them to the public. In opposing the expenditure of an amount scarcely exceeding one installment of their annual pensions to reform land tenures in Ireland, they are riding to their fall.

The Globe-Democrat offers to exchange telegraph bills for the month of March with any of its contemporaries. The Post-Dispatch can not only pay the March telegraph bills of any evening newspaper in the United States that will pay the March telegraph bills of the Post-Dispatch, but can save enough money by the operation to pay the March bills of any New York or Philadelphia evening paper.

The recent calling out of the Greek reserves indicates that the strong and healthy men of that little country will not go to work on their farms and gardens till defeated in war. The industrial fruits of Greece is not encouraging, on account of the abandonment of work by strong men who have laid aside the implements of labor for the needless weapons of war.

GERMANY was out out for a Russian diplomat.

The way to get the upper hand of a snow is to sprinkle salt on its tail.

It takes an able Marquess to manufacture a reliable definition of himself.

CONGRESS is at present showing its love of sport with a rather tame skull race.

At present the robin has no more chance of nesting again than Detroit-Florida JONES.

A THREE MINUTES' speech from Mr. EVARTS would have been a very clever April fool.

MR. JAMES YERGEN, who was recently shot by a crazy nephew, is now a double-headed writer.

THERE is no reason for believing that Senator JONES of Florida would like to be Postmaster of Detroit.

HARRY LIVING is very sensitive about his legs. A man should not be sensitive about such small affairs.

It is possible that the Oregon was sunk by sailing with the breeze of the man who wrote the "Hunting Ball."

GLADSTONE vaguely threatens to reduce the royal pensions. Such an argument will easily impress the royal understanding.

WAGNER's music is called "the music of the future." Some of it is so loud enough to be heard now by the next generation.

It is rumored that BEVLA LOCKWOOD will run for President again. BEVLA will hardly get beyond the outskirts of the race.

PHILADELPHIA has 90,000 more women than men. This difference arises from the fact that the men can escape from the place more easily than the women.

JUDER MCDAM of New York, rules that a husband is liable for slanderous words spoken by his wife. This ought to boom the deaf mute market.

THE tradition that FREDRICK GERHARDT is going to marry Mrs. LAUREY is coming to the front again. Mr. LAUREY, the husband in the case, has not been interviewed about the matter.

WHEN the Panama authorities suppress a newspaper, a tremendous sensation is created, but when a United States Sheriff does the same thing, the only result is quietude and forgetfulness.

SAYS OUTDA: "If the Venus de Medici could be animated into life women would only remark that her waist is large." It is presumed that the men would be stampeded before they could express themselves.

MINISTER WINSTON will be married before he reaches the Persian court. This spoils the Shah's scheme of making him birthday gift of a bevy of beauties from the royal harem, or stock yards, or whatever it is called.

MR. RANDALL's attack of gout is evidence of an inherent un-democratic tendency. The gout is at war with the new-born genius of Jeffersonian simplicity and should be stamped out beneath the heel of public condemnation.

"UNCLE BEN," in the current number of the Century, tells the boys that "there a thousand ways to miss the bull's eye, and but one way to hit it." Uncle Benjamin has added some information as to the chances of setting away from the bull after hitting him in the eye.

DR. LEWIS of London observes: "The health of the American people is materially impaired by the use of that abominable utensil, the frying-pan. It is probable that Dr. Lewis never sopped the peeled end of a roasted sweet potato in the thick gravy that goes with fried chicken."

It is reported that Mr. BROWNING has found in an old trunk two copies of his first poem, "Pauline," and has refused $100 a piece for them. There is nothing startling about this. There are lots of American poets who can produce on short notice the entire first (and last) edition of their poems.

FOREIGN ECHOES.

An alarming increase was effected in the ranks of the unemployed in England some weeks ago by the discharge of 80 workmen from the Government arms factory. This was denied in the House of Commons, but it is true for all that, and the fact that at least a thousand men have been discharged in small batches of eighty and ninety at a time during the past few weeks. These with their families amount to over 8,000 persons are compelled to commute to memory the Government in a time of great distress, while at the same time England is requiring more rifles and will have to send to Germany or America to have them made.

THERE will be another love at St. James Palace before Easter. The Queen, however, does not intend to hold one this season, so the Prince of Wales will hold them all. Men who desire to pay their respects to their sovereign often refrain from going to the early levees of the season in the hope of finding one announced to be held by her Majesty at Buckingham Palace. This year, however, they will wait in vain.

FOURTY-ONE notices have already appeared in the official Canada Gazette of Ottawa for charters for railways or for amendments to existing charters to be asked from Parliament at the coming session. Four of these relate to railways in the maritime provinces, two to Quebec, seventeen to Ontario, sixteen to Manitoba and three to Northwestern Territories, and three to British Columbia. About half of the charters are for new ventures, the others being regulations for extension of time or powers. Evidently there is no weakening of faith connected with the West. Three of the railways are destined to reach the far West of the Saskatchewan country, which three intend to tap the trade of the Western States of America to bring it across Canadian territory.

The quinquennial census which will be taken this year throughout France will be considerably simplified, as the only information demanded from the citizens will be their names, sex, profession and nationality. The Minister is not satisfied because there will be no question of religion in the census papers, and will not admit that the omission was made from respect for liberty of conscience. According to that great Government, which persecutes religion, feared to place the country in possession of a document which would show how small a minority the atheists and anti-religious firm in the country compared with Catholics.

WHO or what is to blame for those specimens of humanity usually styled for want of a better name "human heads." Are they themselves, responsible for their apparently innate and certainly incurable depravity, or did higher powers predispose them to evil that they cannot do good? In the latter case it is not that they should be punished in another world for what is really not their fault? Here is a case in point; Thus Nielsen, the man who not long ago set fire to the Victoria docks, London, causing a conflagration of the most dangerous kind involving the destruction of several hundreds of thousands of pounds solely with a view of plundering during the confusion, is now lying in jail in Denmark. He has recently been condemned to death for the second time by the Danish courts and is not yet 35. His career of crime commenced as soon as he could speak. Before he was 15 he had frequently been punished for theft, and had twice been hanged at the gallows. He is now serving sixteen years for the great time of his life and is for the second time sentenced to death for a second murderous assault on one of the guards, committed partly out of spite and partly because he was tired of life and wished to die. The Supreme Court has now for the second time condemned him to suffer the supreme penalty of the law and it is not probable that any commutation will again be granted to the condemned man. He was in jail when he had been sentenced to death.

A STRANGE story comes from St. Petersburg. A large box addressed to the Empress and marked objets de toilette, sent from Paris, was delivered at the winter palace. Being destined for the Imperial family, it was not examined at the frontier, and when opened by a chambermaid, at the palace she swooned away on seeing the contents. Beneath a quantity of elegant lady's wearing apparel was the body of a tall haired young woman. No clew has yet been obtained to this mystery by the police who are, however, working indefatigably to unearth the criminal or criminals who are responsible for the horrible crime and further outrage to the Empress.

The Greek Government have had representatives in Glasgow during the past few weeks inspecting vessels with a view to the strengthening of their navy. They have completed the purchase of a deep sea steamer of 700 tons from a well-known local firm. The vessel was built on the Clyde a year or two ago and is capable of steaming 15 1/2 knots an hour. Sir W. Armstrong & Co., Newcastle, has supplied the armament. Another Clyde built steamer belonging to Hall has also been acquired by the Greek Government and sailed from England some time since. The Turkish Government had also commissioners in England in search of vessels, but when the British fleet was sent to Suda Bay the commissioners were recalled and the negotiations in progress were broken off.

The Pall Mall Gazette disclosures have had a peculiar result in far-off Australia. The mother of a large family had shown signs of weakness of intellect, but was not for a moment supposed to be insane. The entire family, including father, mother, grown-up sons and several daughters were very universally respected. One night cries were heard proceeding from that part of the house in which the mother and daughters slept. The father and one of the sons went over to make inquiry and was informed that one of the girls had been taken sick, and was now better. The father and son retired and nothing more was heard for several hours, when about 4 a. m. one of the girls came to her brother's room covered with blood. Mrs. Hampton's room was entered and the entire family discovered wallowing in blood. The youngest child, a girl of 2 years old, was found rolled up in a blanket, quite dead, having been literally hacked to pieces. The other daughters were lying about the room cut in various places, the blood flowing freely from their wounds. The mother was unharmed. An investigation revealed the fact that the weak intellect of the mother had been completely deranged by reading of the seduction of young girls. The girls, inheriting a taint of mania from their mother, became imbued with the belief that in some indefinite way there were designs on their purity. On the 25th they held a conference and decided to kill themselves as the only hope of avoiding a life of shame. On the night appointed, they first backed their little sister to pieces and then cut at one another. The whole family is in safe keeping and doctors are inquiring into the state of their minds.

AN INTERESTING QUESTION.

Test Suit Against the State of Georgia on Repudiated Bonds.
 CHICAGO, April 3.—Hon. Robert T. Lincoln of the law firm of Isham & Lincoln said this morning that his firm held bonds of the face value of $100,000, issued by the State of Georgia in 1869 and 1870, and states he has been directed to present them to the State of Illinois for the benefit of the Soldiers' Home. The bonds are among others bought up by foreigners, and for a long time have been in the hands of New York bankers. Mr. Lincoln stated that suit would be brought in the United States Supreme Court against the State of Georgia to recover the amount of these repudiated bonds. In 1882 test suits were brought by the States of New Hampshire and New York against Louisiana, by the Attorney-General of the State of Louisiana, to recover the amount of repudiated bonds by their citizens, and the decision of the Supreme Court, delivered by Chief Justice Waite, was that owners of State bonds could not sue in the name of their State after getting the consent of that State, or one State could not assume the prosecution of the debts of another State to its citizens. It is because of this decision that the present mode of action has been decided on. While the suit proper is pending, the question of the relations between the States under the Constitution, Mr. Lincoln might be, although he was of the opinion that the legal points to be considered would be clearly by Judge to the Supreme Court. Some time ago a move was made with a similar end in view by Judge to the Supreme Court. Some time ago a large number of German holders of repudiated bonds, who claim to be citizens of the United States in the Court of Claims at Washington, in which the claimants were held to be citizens of the United States, and the Southern States directly governed by the general government during the reconstruction period. This case, in which Messrs. Isham and Lincoln are also interested, have a special hearing before the Court of Claims next Monday morning.

A very peculiar petition, signed by several hundred persons, has been presented to the Governor in his behalf. After reciting the circumstances of the murder, the petition concludes: "If he is executed by hanging, as the sentence and the law requires, the noise, necessary to carrying out the execution, will be a source of annoyance to the public, and will in no way interfere with his respiration, and thus his death must necessarily come from sheer physical exhaustion and not otherwise, unless from death by hanging, and the execution would be an outrage on civilization and simply barbarous. In the interest of humanity and enlightened civilization, your petitioners would therefore pray the commutation of such sentence to imprisonment for life."

A MYSTERY EXPLAINED.

The Sudden Disappearance of John M. Hilsop, Four Years Ago.
 MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 3.—Nearly four years ago John M. Hilsop, a book-keeper for Keppeler & Hilsop of the Milwaukee Bridge Works, disappeared suddenly and mysteriously. His widowed mother and his friends generally came to the conclusion that he had either committed suicide or had been murdered, and for days the river near the point where he had been seen the night of his disappearance was dragged. From the day of his disappearance until yesterday, neither his mother nor any of his friends or acquaintances could hear anything about him. Yesterday a letter was received by ex-Mayor Howell of this city from Hilsop, dated Philadelphia, in which the young man explained his sudden and mysterious disappearance. It appears that he had worked for several years trying to invent a patent roller for mill, and had borrowed from a friend a sum of money to pay for the sums of money aggregating nearly $1,000. The invention proved a failure, and Hilsop, in despair, was able to pay Mr. Howell what he owed him, left the city quietly. His mother still lives and resides in Philadelphia. Hilsop is now working in a telegraph office in Philadelphia.

The Water Company Takes Very Queer Action—Notes and Gossip.

Considerable astonishment was manifested by the citizens this morning when it became generally known that the Water Supply Company, which had been laying the water pipes, had hauled all the unaid pipe across the bridge last evening.

When a PORT-DISPATCH reporter called at the Water Company's office on Dyke avenue this morning to see Superintendent Cullen, and obtain from him an explanation of this very queer proceeding, a large crowd of workmen, who had been employed in digging trenches already present for the same purpose, Mr. Cullen was not at the office, and could not be found.

The laborers informed the reporter that two weeks' salary was still due them, and as they had arrived at the conclusion that there was a very poor chance of collecting what was due them, they had proposed to secure the services of an attorney immediately and have an attachment issued against the tools, implements and other property of the company. Mr. Thos. Mackin, the contractor who received the contract for hauling the pipe over to this side several days ago on a claim of $250, but the claim was settled, and the public knew nothing of the company's resolve to discontinue work until this morning.

papers of incorporation about a month ago. Messrs. Samuel Chubb, Charles Thaw and Howard being the incorporators. Mr. Joyce was seen this morning just before the Council meeting, and informed that the company's action in taking the pipe across the bridge last night was greatly surprised, and said that it certainly looked bad. The company adopted the plan of paying off the men every two weeks and as the regular pay day will be next Monday there is as yet no reason for stopping but that that was the company's intention, and that work has not ceased but is being temporarily suspended. Mayor Joyce states that he has a claim of $70 against the company, which he has failed to collect.

PRESIDENT THAW TALKS.

Mr. Chas. Thaw, President of East St. Louis Water Company, was seen this afternoon by a PORT-DISPATCH reporter in St. Louis. He said: "The work has been interrupted on the East side but not abandoned. The company of which I am President let the contract for laying the pipe to the Chicago Water Works Co. of Des Moines, Ill., and he purchased the pipe from Shickel, Harrison & Howard of this city. Some difficulty occurred about payment for the pipe, exactly what it was I can't say. Mr. Shickel, Harrison & Howard went over to East St. Louis yesterday and took the pipe."

"By legal proceeding."

"I do not know, but think not. Whatever difficulty there was has been adjusted now, and Locke will proceed with the work."

"Has he satisfied the pipe-makers' claims?"

"I do not know anything about his dealings with them. The difficulty arose and was adjusted. The work will go on as usual."

Shickel, Harrison & Howard will be taken back on other pipe purchases. There is nothing to do with. We are in a good position. At least $100,000 worth of work has been done, and Mr. Locke has not been paid a cent. We shall not sell a bond until the work is completed."

Morris R. Locke has been and probably still is a wealthy man. He built the Des Moines Springfield railroad and was President of that corporation before it was abandoned. He is a prominent layman in the Southern Illinois Methodist Conference and a promoter of the Western Chautauque, growing into existence at Piasa Bluffs, twenty miles above Alton, where he owns several hills and hollows.

NOTES.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Maurice Tisher of the Herald procured from the Republican the pictures of the indicted officers and had them arranged in a form so as to have them appear in to-day's issue. Last evening some crowd broke into his office, upset the form and committed other depredations.

Mr. Isaac Nelson will make the race for Assessor.

The City Council met in regular session this morning. The City Treasurer's and City Clerk's reports were adopted and a number of claims allowed.

Are there stay there pretty duds! Barkus will shoot your attitude.

PASSED THE HOUSE

THE O'NEILL BILL, SLIGHTLY AMENDED, GOES THROUGH ALL RIGHTS.

Obesity in Danger of Rejection—St. Louis Interest—The Pacific Railroad—Imported Italian Labor—The Pacific Railroad—Washington News.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—The enemies of the labor arbitration bill succeeded in prolonging consideration of it last evening until the hour for adjournment. They believed that the special order for to-day (the silver bill) could not be laid aside, except by unanimous consent, and that there are special orders for three days next week, they expected the arbitration bill to be indefinitely postponed. The speaker ruled, however, that if the motion to take the special order was lost, the arbitration bill could be taken up. An effort was made to compromise, as how for labor and the balance of the day for silver, but without avail. The vote to take up silver was then put to the House and lost; 155 to 85. All of the Missourians present but Stone and Warner, voted against the bill. Motion was made and carried to limit debate on the last section of the bill to ten minutes.

The O'Neill Labor Bill Passed.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—An amendment offered by Mr. Tillman of South Carolina, limiting the cost of all arbitration of the labor bill to $1,000, has just been adopted by a vote of 75 to 62.

PASSED.

The labor bill passed the house at 11:30 by a vote of 155 to 85. Glover and Huston were the only members in the Missouri delegation voting against the bill. Mr. Stone was absent and did not vote.

The Pacific Railroad.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—Secretary Lamar was seen last night with reference to a paragraph printed in a local paper to the effect that a consultation had been held between the President, Commissioner of Railroads, General Johnston and himself looking into the possibility of a receiver for the Union Pacific railroad.

"It is true," said the Secretary, "that I have talked with the President and General Johnston about the Pacific Railroad, but I do not suggest the propriety or necessity of a receiver. I am anxious that during my administration some kind of a relation should be enacted that will give to the government a reliable security, but I am opposed to there being any relationship existing between the government and railroad companies that of a debtor and creditor. I have held a consultation with the Commission on the subject of roads with the view of aiding in the preparation of a bill to be submitted to the Senate, and with sufficient extension of time, that will bring to a satisfactory conclusion the existing and future difficulties of the government, in the future, a revenue commensurate with the enterprise of construction, etc."

Mr. Rogers of Arkansas regarded the bill as a perfect work of art, and that, with the exception of the fifth section, a perfectly harmless bill, unless it might be construed as a length ahead. A mile and a half had now been rowed and the contest continued stubborn, fairly even and exciting up to the two and one-half mile point, opposite Chickawake course. Here Oxford spurred. The boat responded fairly, shooting along until its prow got even with that of Cambridge and then passed it by a few feet.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—Dr. Mary Walker has been performing again, this time for the benefit of a Western member of Congress. The little doctor walked into the House floor and shook hands with the clerks all round. Before this operation was completed the doctor's eagle eye detected the presence of the Congressman who was smoking. "There you are, a sign up here, no smoking allowed," said the little doctor, sharply.

"I'm not smoking," said the doctor.

"Then you are a hog," said the member.

"Then you are a hog," said the doctor.

"You are no gentleman," said the doctor.

"Neither are you," said the Congressman, and the little doctor unable to deny the assertion, turned and walked out of the room, slamming the door after her. Then the Congressman was informed of her identity.

The Austrian Minister's Absence.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—The long absence of Baron Schaeffer, the Austrian Minister, has occasioned some comment. At the time that the Baron left Washington, last summer, there was considerable speculation as to what influence the Kelly matter might have had in causing his departure. Now that he shows no disposition to return, it is openly stated in diplomatic circles, that he will not come back until the United States sends a representative to the Austrian Court. Mr. Seville Brown, Chief Clerk of the State Department, stated last evening that the Baron had gone back because of ill health. He was very ill at the time of his departure, and Baron Schaeffer would return; in fact, he understood that he was coming back very shortly.

St. Louis Interests.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—S. W. Cobb and C. C. Rainwater called on Gen. Newton yesterday to present an argument in favor of the low bridge at St. Louis, but found that he was in New York. Mr. Cobb then telegraphed the Merchants' Exchange to call a Transportation Committee to consider the advisability of introducing a new bill for a low bridge only. Mr. Cobb is awaiting an answer from St. Louis before acting in the matter. He and Mr. Rainwater will remain over until the middle of next week. On Tuesday they will appear before the House Military Committee to protest against the proposed removal of the recruiting station at St. Louis to St. Riley.

Obesity in Danger.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—It is stated that the Committee on Civil Service Reform, which has the nomination of John H. Oberly to be Civil Service Commissioner before it, will undoubtedly report adversely upon it. There are no charges of any kind against the person named Mr. Oberly. It is recognized that he is a man of ability and integrity, but his political record and views upon civil service reform are so well known as to make his nomination for this place conspicuously objectionable. He was appointed to some other position, but the committee do not think it proper to advise and consent to the appointment of a man who is opposed to the enforcement of the laws he is selected to enforce.

The Tariff Revision.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—The House Ways and Means Committee this morning concluded its consideration of the tariff question, and is ready to report to the House.

The principal features of the bill, as follows: Lumber, logs, staves, etc., salt, fish, and wool go on the free list. Woolen goods are reduced 10 per cent. except certain carpets, which are 30 per cent. The Morrison bill. Hemp and jute are reduced 10 per cent. There is a 10 per cent reduction on sugar.

GROWING AND BITTER OPPOSITION TO GLADSTONE'S IRISH SCHEME.

Defeat Regarded as Inevitable—Gladstone's Speech to Be a Vindication of Home Rule—The Great University Boat Race Won by Cambridge—Foreign News.

Special Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, April 3.—That Gladstone is riding toward defeat is at least the opinion held by a majority of those who, as nationalists or ministers, are not bound to optimistic views. The situation of the week has been the sudden adoption by several leading Scotch papers of an attitude of opposition to his scheme so far as understood. The Scotsman began it, and the other prominent journals followed, taking the line previously followed by the Pall Mall Gazette, that the first step toward home rule must not exceed the powers of an American State, Gladstone insisting on conferring independence like that of Canada or Australia. Without the assistance of the Scotch members success is utterly impossible. I learn on the highest authority that Gladstone refuses to alter his scheme, and declares that he will introduce it on Oct. 9 at whatever cost. He knows, however, that there were rumors among the Ministers yesterday of a possible postponement of the date. If Gladstone persists.

DEFEAT SEEMS INEVITABLE.
although the prophecies of Gladstone's defeat have so often been falsified by his overwhelming, insalubrious personal influence. The Irish members profess confidence of the rest, but they stand in any case, for Gladstone's speech will be a vindication of home rule. They probably are in no great hurry to assume the tremendous responsibilities awaiting them. As they are anxious to triumph either in theory or fact, their attitude is natural. Every one also feels the greatest anxiety and uncertainty. Nine out of ten members of the Liberal rank and file cannot be induced to express a vote. Over 100 distinguished persons have applied to the Speaker for seats. The scene at the balloons resembled the Stock Exchange or a betting ring.

The weather for the boat race is fair and warm, with little wind. There seemed to be no abatement of popular interest, the banks being crowded with masses of spectators, and the river covered almost dangerously with craft of all kinds. The result was rather surprising to resume.

THE DIKE-CHAWDRA CASE.
I am in a position to state that Duke's attorney has been informed to-day that providing Duke and his witnesses will make affidavits of his innocence, a third party will apply to the court, showing cause why the decree of divorce should not be made absolute. This places Duke's fate, if innocent, in his own hands.

GLADSTONE'S STATEMENTS.
LONDON, April 3.—The Daily News declares that Mr. Gladstone will postpone his statements regarding Ireland.

Mr. Sexton will go to Barrow-in-Furness to support Mr. Edmunds in his contest for the House of Commons. Mr. Cain, the opponent of Mr. Edmunds, in a speech last night denied that he had ever disparaged Mr. Gladstone. In his address to the electors, Mr. Cain favors wide local government, but opposed to buying out the Irish landlords. He refuses to give pledges as to his future action as long as Mr. Gladstone keeps his plans secret.

THE UNIVERSITY BOAT RACE.
The annual university boat race between the Oxford and Cambridge crews was rowed this afternoon on the Thames River, over the usual course, from Putney to Mortlake, and resulted, as was expected, in a victory for the latter. The sky was cloudy, the weather mild and the winds pretty strong at the start and during the race. The water was sufficiently "lumpy" to put a thorough test to the stamina of the men engaged in the contest. The boat was in favor of the Cambridge crew. The river banks were both crowded with people, thousands of persons making of the race an event for a holiday.

TALKS ENTERTAINING.
entertained the eight-seers almost as much as the contest between the university athletes. A manufacturing company of New England sent up several hundred small balloons from Putney, containing advertisements of their wool-blends. Multitudes who had been to the fair of the balloons. There was consequently great rushing by immense crowds to receive balloons as they came to the ground. The sport occasioned by the balloons was great and indescribable. Amid all this jollity, a large gang of rough and ill-clad men appeared on the scene, as if to remind the holiday makers that there were some Epsom's who were incapable of enjoying the "sport." These marauders of the Epsom's were
